Ahsan Hussain, MD

Ahsan Hussain, MD, completed his undergraduate and medical education in the accelerated BA/MD program at the University of Missouri. Subsequently, he pursued ophthalmology residency at New York Medical College (NYMC) and is now completing his vitreoretinal surgery fellowship at Boston University. He will be joining a private practice retina group in Ocean County, New Jersey. Dr. Hussain has a strong interest in resident education and will also be returning to NYMC as part-time faculty and assistant professor this upcoming fall. He has been actively involved in publishing clinical research and has enjoyed presenting at numerous national and international meetings.
