

ASRS

American Society of
Retina Specialists

Bharti Arya, MBBS, MRCOphth

Bharti Arya, MBBS, MRCOphth, is a tenured industry physician – executive with deep global expertise in ophthalmology clinical development and therapeutic area strategy. She serves as the Global Therapeutic Area Head of Ophthalmology at Parexel International, where she provides leadership and scientific direction for the organization’s global ophthalmology group. In this role Dr. Arya shapes portfolio strategy, oversees therapeutic area growth, guides cross functional teams and advances innovative approaches to clinical research and development.

An ophthalmologist by training, Dr. Arya received her fellowship training in retina and uveitis at Moorfields Eye hospital in London and brings more than 12 years of excellence in academic practice paired with extensive investigator experience in industry sponsored clinical trials in retina across all phases of clinical development.

Dr. Arya is also a graduate of the Harvard Medical School Clinical Scholars Research Training Program.