Sabin Dang, MD

Sabin Dang, MD, is a Vitreoretinal Surgeon and President of The Retina Institute in St. Louis, Missouri. He completed his residency at the Kresge Eye Institute at Wayne State University and his vitreoretinal surgery fellowship at Tufts Medical Center and Ophthalmic Consultants of Boston.

Dr. Dang's research targets the administrative and systemic forces threatening the viability of retina practice, with a focus on prior authorization barriers to anti-VEGF therapy and the downstream impact on patients and practices. His work has appeared in leading ophthalmology journals and contributed to the growing evidence base for policy reform.

A longtime technologist and healthcare innovator, Dr. Dang has developed tools spanning telemedicine, surgical outcomes tracking, and care delivery, bringing an engineer's approach to the real-world challenges facing retina practices today.
