

ASRS

American Society of Retina Specialists

Janani (Jan) Singaravelu, MD, MS

Janani (Jan) Singaravelu, MD is a Second year Vitreoretinal Surgery Fellow at The Retina Group of Washington. Dr. Singaravelu began her education at The University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, PA and was subsequently awarded the Fulbright Student Research Grant to conduct Public Health research in India. She earned a Doctor of Medicine degree at The Ohio State University College of Medicine and was selected for the prestigious NIH Medical Research Scholars Program, where she conducted basic science retina research at the National Eye Institute. She completed her Ophthalmology residency at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis and went on to pursue Ophthalmic Oncology fellowship at the renowned Cole Eye Institute at the Cleveland Clinic. Dr. Singaravelu's research has been included in publications such as Retina, Ocular Oncology and Pathology, and Journal of Neuroophthalmology. Her work and clinical interests include vitreoretinal disease and ocular oncology.